

Abstract

The invention proposes an electrical device for attachment to a holder, particularly in a vehicle, wherein the electrical device is attached on the one side
5 by means of a hook connector and on the other side by means of a detent mechanism, preferably a pivoting ratchet. The detent mechanism can be secured by means of a lock so as to prevent unauthorized removal of the electrical device, which is preferably a display unit.

10 (Fig. 2)